

Modal Verbs	Prefixes	Spelling
Add a modal verb to this sentence. With lots of practice, the tennis player _____ win the next grand slam tournament. 	Mr Whoops has lost some prefixes. Add a prefix to each of the words below to create a word with the opposite meaning. necessary – _____ complete – _____ 	Write a word containing 'ch' to match each definition. _____ : A sound that has been reflected so you can hear it again. _____ : A person in a book or film. _____ : An evil plan.
Adverbs	Word Classes	Subordinate Clauses
Write a different adverb in each gap to complete the sentences. Furious that the doorbell had woken him, Larry answered the door _____. After weeks of being stranded, the rescued man ate his meal _____.	Write a preposition, verb and adverb beginning with 'b'. preposition – _____ verb – _____ adverb – _____ Write a sentence containing your words. _____ _____	Rewrite this sentence so that the subordinate clause is at the beginning. Remember to use the correct punctuation. Adam went on the biggest slide in the water park since he was feeling brave. _____ _____ _____

Modal Verbs	Prefixes	Spelling
Add a modal verb to this sentence. With lots of practice, the tennis player may/could win the next grand slam tournament.	Mr Whoops has lost some prefixes. Add a prefix to each of the words below to create a word with the opposite meaning. necessary – unnecessary complete – incomplete	Write a word containing 'ch' to match each definition. echo: A sound that has been reflected so you can hear it again. character: A person in a book or film. scheme: An evil plan.
Adverbs	Word Classes	Subordinate Clauses
Write a different adverb in each gap to complete the sentences. Furious that the doorbell had woken him, Larry answered the door _____. After weeks of being stranded, the rescued man ate his meal _____. Accept any suitable adverb, e.g. angrily/resentfully and ravenously/hungrily.	Write a preposition, verb and adverb beginning with 'b'. Accept any 'b' preposition, verb and adverb written in a correctly punctuated sentence, e.g. The girl bashfully bought a bunch of flowers from the shop by the bridge.	Rewrite this sentence so that the subordinate clause is at the beginning. Remember to use the correct punctuation. Adam went on the biggest slide in the water park since he was feeling brave. Since he was feeling brave, Adam went on the biggest slide in the water park.